

The Salvation Army Paul and Kay Rader Scholarship

Guidelines for the Central Territory

The Paul and Kay Rader Scholarship has been established in the Central Territory to encourage Salvationist minority students to attend accredited Christian Colleges and to use their knowledge as a Salvation Army Officer or Local Officer within their corps.

For the purposes of the Paul and Kay Rader scholarship, minority refers to any of the racial and ethnic populations within the United States, identified as Hispanic / Latino, Black or African American, Asian, Native Hawaiian and Pacific Islander, American Indian and Alaska Native. Other students with immigrant status may also apply. If a student self identifies as multi-racial, then at least 50 percent of heritage must be of a minority population.

Scholarships Awarded: Up to $5,000 per year per accepted student based on demonstrated need

Maximum awarded Annually: Up to 5 Annual Scholarships not to exceed $5000 for each scholarship

Contact Person: Divisional Youth Secretaries of the Central Territory
Territorial Officer Resource & Development Department

Eligibility:

- Applicant must be from the Central Territory
- Applicant must have a 2.0 or above grade point average on a 4.0 scale
